

SOUTH RICHMOND

PROHIBITION RALLY FOR WASHINGTON SQUARE

Two Young Men Are Fined in Police Court for Fighting in Street.

FUNERAL OF EDWARD H. PAUL

Kessnich's Band Will Make Another Effort to Give Southside Concert To-Night—Chesterfield Horse Thief Sent to Penitentiary.

Under the auspices of the two Southside chapters of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, a prohibition rally will be held on July 21 in Washington Square. The exercises will begin at 8 o'clock in the evening, and will be somewhat similar to the meeting being held on the Ford lot.

Plans are being made for an elaborate program, which will be featured by an address by Mrs. Rupp, State organizer of the union. Two officers of the Anti-Saloon League will also speak, and several ministers will take part. A number of musical selections will be rendered by the children in the Sunday schools of Southside churches.

Fined for Fighting.
Russell Kahn, a young white man, was fined $5 and E. E. Haber $10 by Justice Maurice yesterday in Police Court, Part II, on the charge of engaging in a fight for all right in the street. A. B. and W. H. Coles, who were said to have been badly beaten, were dismissed. The affair occurred about 8 o'clock on Saturday, and created considerable excitement on Hull Street.

Funeral of E. H. Paul.
The funeral services of Edward H. Paul, twenty-five years old, who died on Saturday at noon in the Retreat for the Sick, were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of his mother, Mrs. E. H. Paul, at 1111 River View Cemetery.

Band Concert To-Night.
Provided the elements do not interfere, which has been the case at nearly every concert on the Southside to-night—Kessnich's band will play to-night in Washington Square. Thursday night is the regular date for the music, but it was changed by request, with the hope that luck would change and that it would not rain as heretofore.

Sent to Penitentiary.
O. E. Evans, charged with stealing a horse from Rena Austin, an aged colored woman, was convicted yesterday in Chesterfield Circuit Court, and was sentenced by Judge Robert A. Southall to seven years in the penitentiary. A plea of guilty was entered by Evans, who threw himself on the mercy of the court.

Police Looking for Two Girls.
The police were asked yesterday to look for Ruth Brown, thirteen years old, who escaped from the Virginia House of Detention, and for a girl named in Chesterfield County. The girl was a blue skirt and blue middie blouse. She was sent to the home from Charlottesville.

Personal Mention.
A party of four young Southsiders, who have been several days at Mountain Lake, Va., have returned. Those going on the trip were Berkeley Adams, H. J. Taylor, Hilary DuVal, deputy clerk of Hastings Court, Part II, and W. H. Gilmer.

GROWING ENTHUSIASM
AT SUMMER ENCAMPMENT

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Virginia Beach, Va., July 13.—The Virginia Baptist Summer Encampment, which started here last Tuesday, continues with growing enthusiasm. The many who have been attending the various classes in Bible study and methods, not a few will stay on for sessions on the work done, and if successful, receive on Thursday night, the closing night, certificates. There has been so much interest in one or two classes that extra lessons at extra hours are being given. The first of the class in Bible, Dr. Taylor met a number of his class on the pier for hours of extra instruction.

Dr. Edwin M. Poter was the Chattanooga lecturer to-day. Dr. George W. McDaniel, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Richmond, will speak on temperance.

AMUSEMENTS

BIJOU—Motion picture, Neptune's Daughter. featuring Annette Kellermann. Colonial—Vaudeville and pictures. Empire—Vaudeville and pictures.

They Are Seeing It Twice.
The Annette Kellermann picture, "Neptune's Daughter," was held over at the Bijou Theatre for half another week in order to accommodate those who were unable to see it last week, as a matter of fact, the tension of the picture's engagement seems to have been equal to a Greek play to those who did. For among the crowds that witnessed the picture at its two exhibitions yesterday, there were many persons who had seen it before and who, for that very reason, wanted to see it again.

Nor is that to be wondered at; the production is of such magnitude—including, as it does, a part of the beach—the scenes are of such great beauty, the acting is so good, and the incidents are so thrilling, that this wonderful picture is well worth seeing twice, even by such as may not be particularly interested in the fanciful plot of the fairy tale.

Miss Kellermann is, of course, the star, but there are others who contribute materially to the effectiveness of the photoplay. Leah Baird, who plays the wicked princess, is not only an attractive mortal, but when she is converted by the magic of the witch's spell into a mermaid, she is a mermaid to be remembered, and, villainous though she is, one can't help regretting that the witch thought it necessary to shape all these beautiful features into the shape of a little old octopus. Annette's little sister, too, a bit of a girl, is a clever little thing whose earnest acting makes her death at the hands of fishermen pitifully realistic. And the man with whom Miss Kellermann fights in the water is as nearly amphibious as a man can be—outside of mythology.

"Neptune's Daughter" will be seen twice to-day and again twice to-morrow, after which it will start, having established a record for attendance in the history of the local theatre.

Pretty Act Feature at Colonial.
Featuring the Colonial's bill for the first half of the week is "The Girl in the Moon," an extremely pretentious act, which depends for its effectiveness upon ingenious lighting and mechanical effects. The feature is primarily, and upon the charm of an amateurish girl in the moon secondary. From behind a rose-covered garden wall rises a golden half-moon, in which is seated the girl who gives title to the act, and out over the audience come moon and girl—the moon shining and the girl singing. The act will certainly be well liked, particularly by those to whom the girl gives carnations.

See "Goodness Gracious."
If you don't take your motion pictures too seriously, go to the Empire Theatre to-day to see "Goodness Gracious," or "Movies as They Should Be." It is the most amusing picture of the summer season, and is a film. But if you look upon this form of entertainment with the same reverence that is commonly yielded to a reading man, don't go. It is the crudest burlesque ever conceived by the brains of clever men.

In this ridiculous picture, every possible point has been seized by authors, directors and actors, magnified, exaggerated, and caricatured. Only one thing is a string of thoroughly coherent absurdity. When the hated "Goodness Gracious" is called a cow bell, by the way—about ten luckless jump to wait on him; when two poor hero, his wife and their awestruck children come to beg forgiveness, driven by a fierce snowstorm, the snow comes into the drawing-room with them, when the heroine determines to discover the identity of the man who had put a cruel wrong upon her husband, she hides behind a potted plant about a foot tall, and waits there—two weeks! And the cast is practically all-star.

Headlines this film, which nobody who loves a laugh should miss, there is an excellent photograph of the "Night of the Petersham," a sort of Ku Klux Klan drama, well constructed and well acted.

Norfolk's Population.
Norfolk, Va., July 13.—Health Commissioner Schenck was advised to-day by William J. Harris, director of the United States Census Department, that the U. S. government's official estimate of Norfolk's population for July 1, 1914, is 46,540.

This information is supplied the Health Commissioner in order to compare Norfolk's death rate and other statistical matter to that of other cities.
